

Top 10 Open and Affordable Resources

Faculty of Social Science and Humanities at Ontario Tech

Report your OER Adoption at learninginnovation.ontariotechu.ca

Introduction to Communication COMM 1100U

Communications Ethics COMM 3110U

These courses in @OT_FSSH are based entirely around custom-created OER textbooks. This means no additional costs for students!

OAPEN

Contains freely accessible academic books, mainly in the area of humanities and social sciences.

(<http://www.oapen.org/content/>)

Open Images

Enhance your presentations, infographics, publications and more with open images from sites like Pexels and Unsplash!

(<https://www.pexels.com/>)

(<https://unsplash.com/>)

MERLOT

The MERLOT system provides access to curated online learning and support materials and content creation tools, led by an international community of educators, learners and researchers.

(<https://www.merlot.org/merlot/>)

MIT OpenCourseWare

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) has made materials from 2400 courses available with the idea of unlocking knowledge and empowering minds. (<https://ocw.mit.edu/index.htm>)

Smithsonian Open Access

You can now download, share and reuse millions of the Smithsonian's images - without asking. You have easier access to nearly 3 million 2D and 3D digital items from their collections - with many many more to come.

(<https://www.si.edu/OpenAccess>)

Science 20/20

This resource aims to bring English Language learners into science education.

(www.oercommons.org/hubs/science2020)

MERLOT

The MERLOT system provides access to curated online learning and support materials and content creation tools, led by an international community of educators, learners and researchers.

(<https://www.merlot.org/merlot/>)

Literature Reviews for Education

This open textbook is designed for students in graduate-level education programs. From developing a research question to locating and evaluating sources to writing a sample literature review using appropriate publication guidelines, readers will be guided through the process.

(<https://openlibrary.ecampusontario.ca/catalogue/item/?id=f8ef4f27-7ddb-42ec-a97a-d994bd520e98>)

The Learning Portal OER Toolkit

provides information and tools to help teachers and library staff to understand, engage with, and sustain OER in their work and practice. (<https://tlp-lpa.ca/oer-toolkit>)