PROCEDURES FOR ACCOMMODATION OF MISSED IN-TERM COURSE WORK AND EXAMINATIONS

PURPOSE

1. The purpose of these Procedures is to ensure the consistent administration of accommodations for missed in-term course work and examinations.

DEFINITIONS

2. For the purposes of these Procedures the following definitions apply:

“Examination” means a form of testing intended to assess the level of students’ knowledge, ability, skills, comprehension, application, analysis, and/or synthesis of the subject matter in a course of study. This includes, but is not limited to in-person, online, take-home, practical, and laboratory Examinations.

“Deferred Examination” means an Examination written outside of the originally scheduled day and/or time.

“Final Examination Period” means the period of calendar days stated in the Academic Calendar that is set aside in each Semester and/or Session for the administration of Final Examinations.

“Final Examination” means an Examination scheduled during the Final Examination Period.

“In-term Course Work” means any course work assigned during the Semester or Session.

“In-term Examinations” means an Examination held during a Semester or Session.

“Semester” means sixty days of lectures.

“Session” means a period of approximately six consecutive weeks in the Summer Semester consisting of 30 days of lectures. The first half of Summer Semester is designated as Spring Session; the second half is designated as Summer Session.
