Minor Program Adjustment

Faculty: Social Science and Humanities	Date: 21 November 2017
Program: Criminology and Justice
Undergraduate: X	Graduate: ☐

Minor Program Adjustments include: New required courses, Deletion of required courses, Other changes to degree requirements or program learning outcomes, New academic requirements or changes to existing requirements.

Motion: That CPRC approve the proposed addition of CRMN 4001U to the CRMN program maps.

Proposal Brief

Summary of the proposed change

Addition of CRMN 4001 Special Topics in Criminology and Justice as an alternative option for 4th year required courses in the program map. It will be added to the [One of: CRMN 4099U – Criminology and Justice Integrating Project or SSCI 4102U – Honours Thesis II] grouping of courses. This grouping will now read: [One of: CRMN 4099U – Criminology and Justice Integrating Project or SSCI 4102U – Honours Thesis II or CRMN 4001 Special Topics in Criminology and Justice].

All Criminology and Justice program maps (Major, Major with Specialization(s), Bridge, Advanced Entry) will reflect this change to the 4th year curriculum.

Description of the ways in which the proposed change will enhance the program and/or opportunities for students

The proposed change will allow 4th year students another course option for which to choose from, that satisfies the requirement of an advanced writing course. Currently, CRMN 4099 Criminology and Justice Integrating Project is the only course that reflects this requirement. The proposed CRMN 4001 Special Topics in Criminology and Justice will require students to satisfy the same advance writing requirements through the submission of a final paper, but will afford students the opportunity to also delve into significant depth a particular topic in criminology, according to the course instructors' research interests and specialization.

Process of consultation with other units if the change(s) involves students, staff, and/or faculty from other programs or courses

Change only affects Criminology and Justice students.

Analysis of financial and enrolment implications

Proposed Implementation Date (state term, e.g. Fall 2017)

Fall 2018

Transition Plan (include a plan for all current students in the program, by year level)

Commencing in Fall 2018 all 4th year students enrolled in the program will be able to register in CRMN 4001.

Criminology and Justice, major Criminology and Justice – Criminal Justice specialization Criminology and Justice – Youth, Crime, and Justice specialization Criminology and Justice – Bridge Criminology and Justice – Advanced Entry

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

This writing intensive course explores specific criminology and justice related topics. Using knowledge of criminological theories, quantitative or qualitative methods, or policy analysis, students will be expected to produce a sufficiently new empirical finding or a theoretical/conceptual/policy claim. This course provides students the opportunity to synthesize and integrate knowledge from previous coursework into a substantive final paper that is consistent with a faculty member's specific area of research expertise and topical focus.

Prerequisites	Fourth-year standing in the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities
Co-requisites
Credit restrictions
Credit exemptions
Grading scheme	X letter grade ☐ pass/fail

LEARNING OUTCOMES (this section is required)

Read social sciences journal articles in a critical manner Synthesize the literature in thematic ways Develop a critique of the literature Develop a new claim and an argument that remedies the shortcomings in the literature Connect the paper's main claims and arguments to the broader literature Critique one's own work and make recommendations for future research Complete a research paper that is consistent with the topical focus of the course Produce an empirical finding or a claim/argument that is sufficiently original
