General information

The Faculty of Social Science and Humanities offers a four-year Criminology and Justice program designed to educate students with a broad range of skills required in a variety of fields from criminal justice to law and social services.

Students learn to build an integrated approach to justice services through the examination of each of the justice system's components, including the victim. Graduates will be skilled in taking leadership roles and more collaborative approaches within their own fields and within the related infrastructures of society.

The first year of study is common to all Criminology and Justice students. Beginning in second year, students will have the opportunity to continue with the unspecialized program or to choose from two areas of specialization – Criminal Justice, or Youth, Crime and Justice.

Criminal Justice specialization

In the Criminal Justice specialization, students will explore the foundations of historical and contemporary patterns of social control, and then turn to more focused consideration of the three main institutions of formal control: police, courts and corrections.

Youth, Crime and Justice specialization

Within the Youth, Crime and Justice specialization students will look at youthful offending and victimization, as well as systems of youth justice in Canada and elsewhere. Particular emphasis is given to contemporary issues in youth justice and the effectiveness of the justice system in dealing with young people who come into conflict with the law.

Admission requirements

Admission is competitive. The specific average or standing required for admission varies from year to year. Students are selected by taking into consideration a wide range of criteria including school marks, distribution of subjects taken, and performance in subjects relevant to the academic program. Possession of the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance. Preference will be given to applicants with the best qualifications.

Current Ontario secondary school students must complete the Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD) with six 4U or 4M credits including English (ENG4U). All other applicants should refer to admissions for the requirements for their specific category of admission.

Practicum

A limited number of fourth-year students are granted an opportunity to participate in a learning experience with a community organization. The Practicum course consists of 100 hours of fieldwork, in-class seminars, a set of academic assignments and a major research paper and poster. As part of the pre-practicum process, students will be required to acquire a Vulnerable Sector check. For additional information, please refer to the course description for SSCI 4098U.

~~New Core~~ Internship

This program offers students who have successfully completed three years of study with a cumulative 3. 0 GPA (B average on a 4. 3 scale), an opportunity to engage in a work-integrated learning partnership with organizations locally and globally. The internship program not only gives students an opportunity to apply classroom concepts to the challenges of organizational life, but also helps them to gain valuable and relevant work experience to promote networking and life-long career success.

The internship program placement equates to a minimum of 280 hours of paid or unpaid field experience. The intern's wages, where applicable, are paid by the sponsoring organization over a contracted period. The Faculty may provide links to various internship placement opportunities or a student may secure an internship opportunity that meets the criteria as prescribed by the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities. Successful work placement completion and both a verbal and written final project will result in the intern receiving a mark and three credits toward the Honours Bachelor of Arts degree requirements.

Admission to the internship program is competitive. While students are participating in an internship program, they may enroll in up to one additional course (3 credits) per semester. This course must not interfere with the internship schedule outlined by the employer. For additional information, please refer to the course description for SSCI 4103U.

Double majors

Students registered in a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) program within the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities at UOIT are permitted to pursue any combination of two majors within the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities concurrently as a double major. Double major program maps have been approved by the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities and are available through the Academic Advising Office. Students undertaking a double major within the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities will, in most cases, be required to complete more than 120 credit hours. Students wishing to declare a double major must consult with the Academic Advising office.

Degree and major requirements

To be eligible for the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) degree in Criminology and Justice, students must meet both the degree requirements and requirements of the major as outlined below for a total of 120 credits. Each year prior to course registration, the order and timing of course offerings will be released by the faculty and communicated to students.

Total [120 credit hours]

SSCI 4101U and SSCI 4102U Honours Thesis I and II

In order to be considered for the Honours Thesis I students must apply during their sixth semester to begin their Honours Thesis I in semester seven. The course application must include a detailed statement of intent outlining the methodology, theoretical significance and the projected timelines for completion of the project. To proceed to Honours Thesis II a student must have successfully completed Honours Thesis I with a minimum A- and prepare a written statement outlining the projected timelines for completion of the project.

Please note: only a limited number of applicants will be admitted to the Honours Thesis. Consent is required from both the instructor and the dean.

SSCI 4005U Independent Study

In order to be considered for the Independent Study students must apply in the semester prior to the commencement of the study. Applications must include a letter of intent detailing the course plan and including a preliminary reading list, a suggested method of evaluation and suggested timelines for completing the project. Please note: Only a limited number of applicants will be admitted to the Independent Study. Consent is required from both the instructor and the dean.

Program learning outcomes

(C) Detailed proposal information

Brief background on existing program*	The Criminology and Justice program began in 2003 and was the first program offered in the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities. It completed its most recent program review in 2016.
Rationale for the modification*	The Internship program will provide FSSH students with an alternative experiential learning model that will appeal to those looking for a more immersive work experience. The Internship program will allow additional flexibility for placements outside of the local area, as well as the opportunity for students to obtain paid placements.

The revised curriculum is more cohesive and focused, and more in keeping with contemporary issues and pedagogical approaches. The titles and descriptions have been changed to better reflect the topic areas and to include new issues and trends. Further, the new 4th year block in experiential learning ensures that all students have the opportunity to engage in this form of learning and are meant to make the program more reflective of the push towards more experiential learning at the broader university level. The adjustments to the 4th year are intended to increase the number of 4th year offerings and to make the 4th year more robust. |
| Fit with broader array of program offerings | The Internship course is an elective across the Faculty, and will be included in the new fourth-year Experiential Learning option group with the existing Practicum course. |
| Faculty members | |

The addition of the Internship program will have minimal impact on existing program faculty. A program representative will sit on the Faculty's Experiential Learning Committee, which will be a sounding board for both the Internship and Practicum programs. Participation on the EL committee will count towards a faculty member's regular service workload.

The additional curricular changes can be accommodated with existing faculty. The required upper year courses that are being converted to electives have historically been taught by sessional instructors, and are often difficult to fill. Removing them opens up additional elective space for students, and provides additional opportunity for core faculty to teach advanced upper year courses in their areas of expertise.

Additional academic and non-academic human resources*

The FSSH Practicum Office will be involved in the vetting of both the applicants and the potential Internship placements, and will provide administrative support for the internship course. The two full-time Practicum Coordinators manage these aspects of the existing Practicum program, and much of their existing documentation and process will be applied to the Internship program. A recent restructuring of the Practicum office was undertaken with the creation of the Internship in mind, so that the increase in workload could be accommodated.

No additional human resources required to accommodate the additional curricular changes.

Physical resource requirements*

None

Statement of funding requirements*

Projected enrolment in the Internship program is expected to be relatively small (~10 students). No additional funding is required outside of the cost of offering a single elective course.

Broader curricular changes should result in no net-new course sections being required.

Statement of resource availability*

Financial cost of offering an additional elective course will be covered within existing Faculty budget.

Transition plan*

A program launch session will occur in the Spring of 2019 to introduce the Internship and invite applications for the 2019-20 academic year, however, uptake is likely to be minimal for Fall/Winter, as it would very likely require students entering 4th year to delay their graduation.

It is expected that the greatest interest in the Internship will be from students who will be entering their 3rd year in the Fall of 2019, who can plan ahead and complete the Internship during the Summer of 2020, and then resume their regular 4th year studies in the Fall of 2020. To that end, additional information sessions will be held in Fall 2019 and/or Winter 2020.

Broader curricular changes will apply to students entering Year 1 in 2019.

Advanced Entry program general information

The Criminology and Justice Advanced Entry program provides college graduates with the opportunity to apply their Police Foundations, Correctional Worker/Community and Justice Services, Child and Youth Worker, Law and Security Administration diploma, or Youth Corrections and Intervention graduate certificate toward a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Criminology and Justice.

Students enrolled in the Criminology and Justice Advanced Entry program will enter directly into third year of the Criminology and Justice degree program at UOIT and will follow a modified program map that will allow students to complete the program in two years of full-time study.

Admission requirements

Admission is competitive. The specific average or standing required for admission varies from year to year. Students are selected by taking into consideration a wide range of criteria including school marks, distribution of subjects taken, and performance in subjects relevant to the academic program. Possession of the minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance. Preference will be given to applicants with the best qualifications.

To qualify for the Criminology and Justice Advanced Entry program, the minimum entrance requirement is a two-year Ontario college diploma (or equivalent) in Police Foundations, Correctional Worker/Community and Justice Services, Child and Youth Worker (CYW), or Law and Security Administration. Applicants with a Youth Corrections and Intervention (YCI) graduate certificate require a two- or three-year diploma in a related field to be eligible for admission.

Advanced Entry completion requirements

Students accepted into the Advanced Entry program will complete the following courses.

Course description*

Internship is a form of experiential learning that provides students with opportunities to acquire workplace skills and knowledge, critically examine the relationship between work-related practices and the theories behind them while cultivating a sense of personal and professional development. The internship placement consists of a minimum of 280 hours of fieldwork (paid or unpaid) in one semester, online discussions, reflective journals, and a final project and presentation that integrates and synthesizes students' work experience with previous coursework and knowledge gained throughout their program of study.

Course description

Criminological theory has undergone remarkable change ~~and growth~~ since the 1960s, corresponding to rapid social ~~transformations. Indeed~~ economic, ~~the shifts in basic social relations and routines~~ ~~cutlural~~ cultural, ~~the movements of goods and people, the organization and meaning of families and households, the character and definition of work and labour markets, the power of state and social control authorities — are intrinsic to how we now think about and respond to crime, criminalization, and victimization~~ ~~an~~ and political change. This course explores the emerging questions and ideas that have shaped modern criminological thought. Attention is paid ~~throughout~~ to the contexts that shape the emergence and reception of criminological theories ~~from~~ since the 1960s ~~to contemporary times~~, and to the modes of social intervention that different criminological perspectives expressly or ~~implicit~~ implicitly propose. Central to the ~~aims of this~~ course is the development of competency in applying these ~~perspectives~~ ~~persepctives~~ perspectives to contemporary issues.

Course description

This course provides students with an understanding of the contours and purposes of various juvenile justice systems in selected countries, including Canada, through examination of various cases, legislative initiatives and social forces that have affected juvenile justice policy in these countries. In addition to examining the evolution of these juvenile justice systems, learners will examine changing approaches to the policing and adjudication of juvenile offenders, as well as the transformation of juvenile courts. Finally, students will gain an understanding of contemporary issues in juvenile justice in Canada and elsewhere, and an appreciation for the policy and analytical value of comparative methods.

| Course title (short form) | The Prison Experience |

| Subject area | Criminology and Justice |

| Course description | The focus of this course is the study of prison life. It will review a number of classic sociological studies in which the prison has been recognized as a world set apart, one with unique cultures, demands and processes. This course will examine the experiences and lived realities of prisoners and prison staff, which include strategies of adjustment and survival and the prevalence of violence in prison. Finally, it will discuss the ways in which inmates negotiate and resist the experience of power, discipline and formal social control. |
