The Committee reviewed 152 domestic complete applications for the major scholarship awards who met the grade qualification of 85% minimum based on completed and mid-term U/M level or equivalent courses.

Alternate offers of the scholarships were made to the next eligible candidates if the scholarship offers were declined. Each qualified applicant was first read independently by five committee members and scored on an evaluation rubric. The top 25 scoring applications were then read by all members and resulted in a ranking of these individuals and offers being made.
