

Patrick Duggan – Candidate Statement

This is undeniably the most critical period of the current century, and it is of utmost importance that educational systems alter accordingly to prepare the future workforce for the difficulties that are ahead. Closer integration with industry surrounding key GDP sectors is both necessary and vital to ensure that current objects are reached, and failure to do so in the long run will only seek to undermine our best interests.